

ORACLE University's 2008 Partner of the Year

End User Training

TAM Training provides custom training initiatives that enable your end users to be more productive. By incorporating your organization's policies and procedures within training, your end users will gain an understanding of how to use the product in the context of their specific role.

We develop custom materials that reflect your unique business processes and contain references to data sets that are familiar to your end users. A custom solution that is relevant to your organization serves as a valuable learning tool to be leveraged in your post-go-live production environment.

TAM Training provides end user readiness with:

- Certified training on all Oracle Applications
- Accountability and consistency in curriculum development
- Training implementation using custom "4D" training methodology
- Custom development by instructional designers
- Straightforward "jump start" programs
- Change management
- Online performance support
- Multiple innovative tool sets
- Training delivered by those who know it best - Oracle Certified Instructors

TAM Training produces custom end user training materials that are:

- Practical
- Motivational
- Appealing and interactive for the audience
- Inclusive of client business policies and procedures
